

Anael Aguirre

Anael Aguirre, an actress from La Paz, Baja California Sur, discovered her passion for acting through aerial dance, where she learned to express herself through movement and art. "In aerial dance, I met people who inspired me, and that's where I understood what it truly means to express myself through my body and the arts," she recalls.

Anael is currently pursuing a degree in Performing Arts for Theater and Audiovisual Expression at CasAzul. Her training encompasses acting, body and verbal expression, dramatic reading, and cinema, all of which have helped shape her artistic journey. "I've always been close to art, even before I fully understood what it was. I've always enjoyed transforming my emotions into ideas and expressing them through images, sounds, and movement."

With a strong desire to make her mark in Mexican cinema, Anael is selective about the projects she takes on, aiming to choose those that go beyond mere entertainment to convey meaningful messages. She also dreams of creating and directing her own stories, staying true to her roots, and contributing to the evolution of Mexican filmmaking.

Beyond acting, Anael channels her creativity through aerial dance, dramatic writing, cycling, and painting—each offering a unique way to explore and express her emotions. "I'm passionate about being part of something bigger, lending my being and soul to tell stories that move others, just as art has always moved me."

Hay una libertad en mi pecho que se desborda en imágenes y letras

