Diego Abdel is a model originally from Mazatlán, Sinaloa, whose calling toward medicine began at a very young age, inspired by his desire to care for the health of his grandparents. He currently balances his medical studies with his modeling career, finding in both worlds different ways to connect with people—through presence, aesthetic sensitivity, and human understanding.

With a curious outlook and an open mind toward the world, Diego aspires to travel, broaden his perspective, and eventually specialize in plastic surgery, integrating science, precision, and a sense of aesthetics into a practice dedicated to well-being.
