Ángel Daniel is originally from Guadalajara, Mexico. After beginning a technical nursing program, he discovered that modeling was the path he wanted to pursue, and over the past four years he has developed a distinct identity within the industry. His sense of style comes from his mother, who taught him from an early age to appreciate proportion, color, and the value of developing a personal style. Outside of modeling, he enjoys photography and film especially the Cars trilogy which continue to shape his visual perspective. Although naturally reserved, he sees modeling to express himself and connect with others.
